EXEL EARNS TWO BEST NORTH AMERICAN 3PL AWARDS FROM EYEFORTRANSPORT

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (Aug. 9, 2007) – Exel, the North American leader in supply chain management and a Deutsche Post World Net company, earned two Best North American 3PL Awards from eyefortransport, which is a leading news, research and events company for the logistics and transportation industry.

Exel received recognition in the Best 3PL for Pharma, Chemical & HazMat and Best 3PL for Fast Moving Consumer Goods categories, which were based on votes cast by North American 3PL customers in those industries. The Best 3PL Awards in these and other categories were presented during the fifth annual eyefortransport 3PL Summit in Atlanta.

According to customers who voted, the best 3PLs in each category exhibited flexibility, proactive problem solving, commitment, effective communication, a close understanding of the customers' needs, and the ability to be a seamless extension of the customers' companies.

"We know the companies recognized with these awards are the best because the voting was done by the customers," said Chris Saynor, eyefortransport's chief executive officer. "They're the ultimate judge of quality and service in this industry, and the Best 3PL winners such as Exel know how to deliver it."

Bill Meahl, Exel's chief executive officer, added, "We're pleased to receive these awards because the recognition of our service level comes from our customers and the industry. We're proud of the trust our teams have earned and will use these awards as motivation to continue exceeding our customers' expectations."
